ISACs are Independent, Reliable Communities Industry Can Rely on When Governments Change

Denise Anderson, Health-ISAC President and CEO, has been recently quoted in several articles explaining the stability of ISACs.

Changes in government administrations “only serve to demonstrate the tremendous importance that ISACs bring to global security, as stable, reliable communities of trust that industry and critical infrastructure sectors can rely on for timely, actionable, relevant information and analysis, coordination and collaboration 24/7, 365 days a year.”

Denise Anderson
President and CEO

“ISACs are communities of trust built on private-sector collaboration, and that model has worked for over 25 years.”
